

To Whom It May Concern:

I have had the pleasure of ministering alongside the Carriers of the Cross Ministry for many years. When I was first exposed to their ministry, I don't think they were even promoting themselves as a rap ministry. They were running a Christian Cafe in their church in NJ. Anyone in ministry knows that it takes a person sold out to God and selfless to plan an event which is used as an outlet to save souls.

Through their music you can hear their passion for saving souls and their genuine love for living life according to God's commands. On stage and off stage, they are all about ministry. Being an event coordinator it is evident that not all ministries minister. Some just sound good others just look good. I highly recommend Carriers of the Cross for anything you do that has to do with leading people to Christ. They are on point.

We have had Carriers of the Cross minister at the Salem Coffee House and Rap Fest several times and the only complaint we have gotten is that their appearance and participation is not often enough.

God Bless You.
